

The Orlando Institute

equipping leaders to build spiritual movements everywhere

FACULTY APPLICATION

If you desire to be an adjunct faculty member with The Orlando Institute please write a letter including the following items. We wish to evaluate your character, academic qualification, personal ministry ability and professional ministry leadership. The exact qualifications needed depend on the position for which you are applying (Bible teacher, ministry teacher, field mentor, etc.).

1. Personal spiritual life – When did you become a believer in Jesus Christ, what was your early and later experience of spiritual growth? What people, books, or training have helped you deepen your walk with God? Please feel free to expand on these items as appropriate.

2. Ministry experience – What has been your experience of church life? What makes a church dynamic? What makes a fellowship a good place to be? What professional leadership roles have you had? How many people have you individually disciplined in ministry to other people? How many people, approximately, have you individually or in services lead to have a personal faith in Jesus Christ? Do you have disciples who are making disciples? Please feel free to expand on these items as appropriate.

3. Academic qualifications – what was your university major? What graduate degrees/fields have you completed? Have you taught on the faculty of any university or seminary? Do you have any academic publications? Have you presented at any professional conferences? Please feel free to expand on these items as appropriate.

4. Character – We are not looking for failures here. What are your best character qualities? Are you consistent in maintaining integrity with spouse, family, co-workers, friends, ministry partners, students? Can we count on you to observe a professional moral and spiritual relationship with any and all students? Please feel free to expand on these items as appropriate.

Please date and sign these application materials and send them to the President at the address below.